February 24, 2025

The final week of February is packed with opportunities for students, faculty, and staff. Get ready for an exciting week of engagement and possibilities!

Connect, Engage, and Transfer!

Transfer Fairs are happening at each campus this week. Don't miss your chance to meet face-to-face with representatives from top four-year institutions. The fairs will be at the Germantown Campus today, Rockville tomorrow, and Takoma Park/Silver Spring on Wednesday. Planning for success starts early. Representatives can answer your questions about admissions, financial aid, scholarships, transfer credits, and more. Events like this help you prepare for next steps after MC.

College Submits Self-Study Design

The College has submitted its self-study design plan to the Middle States Commission on Higher Education (MSCHE), which is the regional agency that accredits MC. I am grateful for the tireless work of the Self-Study Steering Committee that went into this plan. The chapter working groups have been named and are preparing for their work on the self-study. As we advance this important project, there will be multiple opportunities for input and insights from faculty, staff, and students. A visiting team will come to the College in 2027, as part of MSCHE's reaccreditation process, to examine the conditions and findings that are contained in the self-study report.

Meet Finalists for Senior Vice President for Student Affairs

After a snow delay, the candidates for senior vice president for student affairs will visit the College this week. Details of their visits were announced earlier and include an open forum on each campus—and one virtually. During a forum, the finalist will provide a brief introduction and then the floor will be open for questions from faculty, staff, and students. Each forum will last 45 minutes and will likely touch on many aspects of the student experience that are part of the student affairs division, including recruitment, registration, counseling, advising, Raptor Central, financial aid, athletics, Student Life, veterans' services, and more. Come be part of the process and have an opportunity to offer your feedback.
